

There was a cat named Kitkat, he was a black cat with bright green eyes. He was an ordinary cat at day but at night he turned into a big, hairy, 3-eyed tiger. He wanted his friends to help him get a cure for his owner that recently caught a sickness called Bloodfire. It's basically a virus that gestated in wolves two thousand years ago. The first to be infected was Genghis Khan. It causes the symptoms usually associated with vampirism, photosensitivity and invincibility. The entire nation of Russia is infected, except for a few feral children. The virus can cause extreme mutation, for example the snake's tail present in Khan's head scientist. They needed ingredients to make the cure. There are at least 5 types of things they need for it. They need 3 spider eyes, 15 berries, 2 moths, 1 red snake, 1 tree frog. They needed to go to a jungle, but the thing is one of Kit Kat's friends' owners was going to a jungle. The decided to sneak into the owners luggage.

After they got there, they quickly ran over to the jungle and they already found a spider. It was also already night and Kit Kat turned into a big, hairy, 3 eyed tiger. He managed to catch the spider and then he got his long, sharp, shiny claws out and poked the three eyes out. Then one of Kit Kat's friends managed to catch a tree frog and his other friend got two moths. They also had a stop to eat some berries and they also got 15 for the cure. The only thing left was the red snake. They will have to watch out because it can bite them.

4 long, boring hours later

They saw a nest of red snakes so Kit Kat ran over poked his claw through the snake and then they ran back to Kit Kat's friends owner. But then they saw something so they decided to go there. They slowly walked there and they were surprised to see a graveyard. Kitkat and his friends checked it but nothing was suspicious or anything so they started returning. Then one of Kitkat's friends saw a big, pitch black gate. They went to check it out and there was a sign that said hangman... Then Kitkat got shivers. Then his friend saw a button so he pressed it. It took Kitkat and his friends to a big white board. They were surrounded by graves with their names on them. It was a deadly game of hangman... There was a word they had to guess. If they get it wrong then a little cut will appear on their skin saying wrong and then salt will appear on the cut and it will sting a lot but if they get it right nothing will happen. First to guess was Lily one of Kitkat's friends. Luckily she got it right. Then was kitkat he got it wrong. A little cut appeared on his skin. Next was another of kit kats friends Tom he got it wrong too. Then more of kit kats friends Tried but they finally got the word. The word was "Are you dead?"

Finally they could go back home with no one dead.

Back home

Then they quickly had to make the cure for kit kats owner before he would be gone.

They had to boil water and the first thing they had to add was the 3 spider eyes. After that was the 15 berries. Next were the moths then the red snake and last the tree frog.

They gave the cure to kitkats owner and after 2 days he was all fine again.